DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-4, 12, 14, 16, and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mueller (USPN 5230906) in view of Ellison (USPN 6399193) as set forth in the Office action mailed 6/3/04.

3. Claims 5-8, 13, 15, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mueller (USPN 5230906) in view of Ellison (USPN 6399193) as set forth in the Office action mailed 6/3/04.

4. Claims 18-21 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mueller (USPN 5230906) in view of Ellison (USPN 6399193) as set forth in the Office action mailed 6/3/04.

5. Applicant's arguments filed 12/9/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the web of Mueller does not constitute the claimed decorative web because the decorative web of creates a panel that "does not require paint or other extra steps to provide a finished look to the vehicle body." This argument is misplaced because the mere fact that the web of Mueller is used to form an automobile exterior body panel illustrates the decorative function of the web. Also, the lack of paint or other extra steps argument is misplaced because such language is not found in the instant claims.

Applicant argues that Mueller teaches top and bottom layers that are uniform in thickness and composition whereas the instant invention can have layers of different thickness and composition. This argument is misplaced because the instant claims do not recite layers of different thickness and composition.

Applicant argues that Mueller does not teach the use of thermoplastic material. This argument is misplaced because it is clear from col 3, lns 39-43 of Mueller that the material can be either thermoplastic or thermosetting. For example, Mueller teaches the use of urethane, which is well-known in the art to be thermoplastic and thermosetting. It should be mentioned that not all of the instant independent claims use thermoplastic material, i.e., epoxy is a thermosetting resin.

Applicant argues that the combination of Mueller and Ellison is based on hindsight and there is no suggestion to combine. In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971). In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the motivation comes from knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the automotive art that a transparent layer provides enhanced protection to an exterior body panel.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kasari et al (USPN 5366768) teach an epoxy-resin clear coat from automobiles.
